

Circumstances and consequences: the circumstance affects the situation of how an event happens or develops. Which becomes a common occurrence that you can become accustomed to? For example the role of importance is to be a part of associated with a developing event. Doing it builds character. So circumstances and consequences help to build character, you come to a point in being a part of the event of finding out the true intent is to have character resolve consequently, The issue which in itself is to have character resolve about yourself as well as a group.

It is an accomplishment to see the results of effort realized the operation of any mission is contingent upon one's efforts it is the synthesized effort of team chemistry without strife the tolerance of this effort breeds endurance of maintaining enhancing and improving upon character resolve.

Following: is a result of character resolve that benefits all that is involved because every cause begins with a seed in the relationship with the seed to the ground in which it must be planted must be fertile as well as cultivated to grow and mature like man and woman mind and matter producing a crop.

Importance: the value and relevance of interest becomes positional because the reputation is at stake one place in society, So an invested interest is to make a reputation for himself or herself carving out a there role place and society however what should be primarily carved out our that which carved the reputation out is character. When character carves out humanity reputation you have what is called high culture.

Culture is designed to help you find your bearings it is necessary but not sufficient it does not define humanity it is expression of your humanity. Culture is the totality of a people though and practice key is what they have totaled up calculated accumulated has been characterized as culture. it becomes a role to play and that role could be in such high demand but the one that's playing the role is merely acting.

Pretention: is an affected behavior that is intended to give appearance of greater importance, status or knowledge that is warranted, resulting in a pathological behavior as well colloquial language calls it ego tripping also aggrandizement behavior as well. The progress of this type of behavior becomes questionable to say the least laying claim to something untruthful by way of dubious assertions of what is right or called a right of a right to something especially something valuable, admirable or prestigious.

This becomes a life style a way of living superficially artificially and falsely laying claim to something in which you value rather than something that you have not earned or evolved and matured to which is character resolve. So circumstances and consequences help to equip us to improve and enhance character with in our surroundings consequently, of activity that has and is taking place.
